

Steve Bellone Way

There is the Ted Williams tunnel in Boston. We also have the Jackie Robinson Parkway in New York City, which is really an insult to one of America's greatest heroes. But I digress.

Now there is Piazza Bellone, an honorary street name at the Tanger Outlets at the Arches in Deer Park named after Steve Bellone. We kid you not.

The Blumenfelds of Blumenfeld Development Group, which owns the new outlet center, said the road is being named after the current supervisor of Babylon because of his "leadership, and his willingness to see economic redevelopment."
